VACATION TIME HAS ARRIVED

Tenting Out, Combined With Sight Seeing, Affords Best Time

A GOOD PLAN SUGGESTED

The Daily Republican Offers Several Cheap Trips to Rush County People

Now that vacation time is really here and camping out is more pleasant than indoors, why not plan your trip to the Jamestown Exposition and take advantage of The Daily Republican's cheap rates, or better still, get one of the free tickets, and see something while on your vacation and at the same time enjoy "tenting out" at Tent City within a stone's throw of the exposition gates. The large ad in today's issue explains all our different plans.

In going to the Jamestown Exposition one must bear in mind that you travel over the Chesapeake & Ohio Route along the banks of the beautiful Ohio to Huntington, swinging abruptly eastward through the foothills, touches the Kanawha River, just before reaching Charleston, the capital at West Virginia; thence along the Kanawha to the junction of the New and Greenbrier Rivers, climbing higher and higher in the mountains, until the crest of the Alleghenies is reached at Allegheny, every mile of which is filled with beauty and wonder. Then begins the long descent to the Atlantic through many interesting and historic places across the Valley of the Shenandoah until within a few hours the road comes out on the mountain side a boat Afton, above the Piedmont Valley, where one of the most beautiful panoramas of mountain and valley is presented. The whole trip from the prairies to the sea is one grand moving [picture of plain and valley, river and mountain, and the interest is kept alive from beginning to end.

What to the Jamestown Exposition lacks in magnificence, is going to be made up fully by the points of interest in and about Pine Beach—points which fairly bristle with historic value and which are dear to the hearts of all Americans. There is the Jamestown Island a spot hallowed in its wealth of memories and marked by the old tower church built by John Smith and his sturdy followers right around 1620. This point is passed in coming down from Richmond on the James river steamer or constitutes a pleasant day's sail from Pine Beach with boats leaving the pier a block or so away.

There is Yorktown, the scene of Cornwall's surrender to Washington, and you can go there by steamer for one dollar. There is Norfolk with its old church bombarded by Lord Dun-haven, the cannon ball still sticking in the brick wall—bricks in the same having been imported from England 300 years ago.

There is the navy yard at Portsmouth, just across the river from Norfolk, the biggest navy yard in the United States, with its myriads of war vessels all the way from the big Olympia or Iowa down to the little 650-tonners. The big battleships submarine flotilla. The big drydocks, the shops where ships are made and repaired and the cost of all this is only a trifle. For instance: One can leave Pine Beach on a bright morning and go to Norfolk for 10 cents. You and go to Norfolk for 10 cents. You can spend a half day there and then cross over to Portsmouth on the ferry for 2½ cents. Taking a car it costs 5 cents to ride to the navy yard, where three or four hours can be profitably spent. Then another five cents will take one to the Navy Hospital, well worth seeing, and the total expenditure has been 32½ cents. The return home to Pine Beach can be made for the same money, and the biggest day of sight seeing in the life of an ordinary traveled individual—and profitable sight-seeing at that—has been accomplished for 45 cents.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, AUGUST 16, 1907.

The baseball fans don't seem to be incommenced on account of the telegraphers' strike. They get the reports of the games just the same.

It is reported that Farmer Aguiado, of the Philippines, is conducting himself these days after the manner of the benevolently but thoroughly assimilated citizen.

A Colorado judge says the vote of a woman can be bought for $15, while the vote of a man can be bought for $2. Which, you will notice, is about the difference in the cost of their respective hats.

Some of the anti-protection papers are trying to make the point that the people are compelled to pay ten or twenty cents a pair more for shoes than under the Wilson-Gorman law. The fact that the tariff on the average is but a tenth of this makes no difference to the politician, who is simply seeking to make a point. And of course he has nothing to say about the fact that, whatever the prices may be, the average man finds it infinitely easier to procure shoes now than he did while living under that law.

Those who really care to consider the actual strength of Vice President Fairbanks should remember how he came to be nominated in 1904. It was against the advice of some of Mr. Fairbanks' most trusted friends that he accepted the nomination for the vice presidency. He had no reason to seek that nomination and no reason to accept it, except that he felt it to be a duty. The one reason most of all back of the pressure that was brought to bear upon the matter, the one reason that made this nomination desirable on the part of the people was the recollection of the lamentable Buffalo tragedy. This point was emphasized by Elihu Root when he formally notified the distinguished Indianapolis. The recent tragedy had reminded the people that they needed in the vice presidency a man who would be a capable president. This demand came then from the people. The sentiment in his favor today comes from these same people. Those who, for personal reasons, seek to belittle this man, or in any way to create preju-

IMPORTANT INQUIRY

Railroad Commission Will Demand Uniform Freight Rates.

Indianapolis, Ind., August 16.—With a view to regulating the rates on classified freight in Indiana and to prevent discrimination against any locality, the state railroad commission has begun a sweeping inquiry into the subject. All of the railroads have been notified to appear here Oct. 12 to testify before the commission. The latter has received several hundred complaints from shippers who allege that the rates in many instances are not only too high, but that they permit discrimination against many cities and towns. The commission has sent out a circular letter stating that it appears that rates on classified freight out of Indianapolis are excessive and lacking in uniformity. As a result of the inquiry it is expected that many rates will be reduced and others made uniform. It is regarded as the most important action the commission has taken.

"Six cities are in the race for the national convention," said Chairman Taggart, "and it is getting to be a pretty lively sprint. They are Louisville, St. Louis, St. Paul, Chicago, Cincinnati and Atlantic City. The Kentucky Democracy is getting very busy on the proposition. I have received a petition signed by both of the senators, all of the representatives in congress and the governor of that state asking that the convention be held in Louisville. I shall call a meeting of the national committee during the latter part of December or early in January to decide upon the time and place for holding the national convention. That committee meeting will be held either at French Lick or Washington, D. C." Atlantic City has nearly 1,000 hotels, and there is no other city in the country that is better qualified for the convention on that score. It also has a famous board walk, where the politicians might congregate to do their electioneering and dice against him, should understand that in the same breath they are reflecting upon the same people that they pretend to serve.

Secretary Taft's speech before the Backey Republican club, of Columbus, Ohio, next Monday, will be in the nature of a keynote speech, and will probably be the most important political utterance of his career.

It is desirable, of course, for Kentucky to find out if possible who actually did kill Governor Goebel, but what Kentucky needs even more than this is to convince the world that any man suspected of this crime will be given a fair trial.

The telegraphers' strike, says the Cambridge City Tribune, is another one of those big spasms that labor unions create under the pressure of regulating rates or adjusting differences. If the agitator could be eliminated, labor unions and their employers often would settle their business affairs of without entailing inconvenience and financial loss to the public.

While Governor Vardaman was seeking votes for the United States senatorship in the Mississippi primaries, he stated more than once that he would rather live "in the Confederate States under Jefferson Davis than in the United States under Theodore Roosevelt." It is gratifying to know that such a man was defeated for the senatorship; it would have been still more gratifying if he had met with the overwhelming defeat that he deserves.

A newspaper of greater New York is telling its readers, who want to dodge the meat trust, the "cold storage warehouses," and the Chicago packers, to "keep hens." These "birds," it says, require very little except good feeding, for the number of eggs they will produce depends much upon their condition, and their condition depends on the amount of nourishment they obtain. Those who have raised chickens know what a "small" item "good feeding" is. The editor that metropolitan paper of a metropolitan city probably never was inside of a henhouse.

logrolling. Its chief drawback is its lack of railroad facilities.

Two hundred and seventy or more insurance companies doing business in the state have paid into the state treasury a total of $171,885.95 in taxes for the six months ending June 30. The amount for these six months will show a decrease from the amount paid in during the preceding six months because of a decrease in the amount of business done. Seven companies that are yet to settle will add about $2,000 to the amount already received, bringing the total up to about $174,000. During the preceding six months the companies paid in $177,000. The amount paid by the companies this year is about $11,000 in excess of the amount expected by Cyrus E. Neal, deputy insurance commissioner. It is considered a very good showing for the first six months of the year, and is a substantial increase over the amount paid into the treasury during the same period last year.

Some of the Indiana Democratic leaders seem greatly exercised over the statement of Senator Bacon that a Southerner should be nominated for president. Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said: "I think that Senator Bacon is wrong in his statement that the next Democratic candidate should come from the South. I am one of those who believe that geographical considerations should not enter into the selection of a candidate for president. What we want is the right kind of a man, and the question of where he hails from is wholly unimportant. If Senator Bacon knows of an available man it would be entirely proper for him to present that man's name to the national convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination. The convention should not give a thought to the question of locality."

A LETTER FROM NORTH DAKOTA

Flasher, N. D., July 27, 1907.
Mr. Noble Brann, Rushville, Ind.:
Dear Sir:—As Mr. Meek is busy, he referred the answering of your letter to me.

North Dakota is just as fine as ever. These fine days and cool nights, with a few more mosquitos than we need—and here I make application of David Harum's remark—"a certain amount of flees is good for a dog; it keeps him from brooding over the fact that he is a dog." These mosquitos bring a fellow to a realization that this is earth and not Paradise yet. But as I was about to say these long sunny days make the crops grow and the breezes and cool nights bring health and happiness to the people.

This has been a very peculiar and backward season as it has been every place, but crops are looking fairly well. The drought early in the season retarded the growth of some of the small grains, especially on second year's breaking, where it is impossible to get the ground in good order. The flax is generally good and the corn is splendid. A neighbor has 30 acres of as fine corn as I ever saw back home.

We have a patch planted with corn brought from home, the "White Layton." We succeeded in maturing about half the crop last season and selected the best ears for this year's planting. It is now in tassel and we expect to get quite a nice lot for seed next year. I mention this merely to let people, who usually consider this country too far north for corn, know that we can raise it. A country that will mature Indiana corn is not a bad country. The flint and some dent varieties are successfully raised here and yield from 30 to 45 bushels per acre. Corn and potatoes do well here even in the dryest years, and dry years will surely come. There have been droughts and there will be droughts—it is unreasonable to predict otherwise, but with the new methods of farming that are being worked out and taught by our State Agricultural College, an institution of which every Dakotan is justly proud, the effects of droughts are overcome. This year on the old ground where the sod is thoroughly rotted and the crops carefully put in, the yield will be great. The people of the Northwest are coming more and more to a realization of the fact that intensive farming pays, and that with pigs, poultry and cows they can make an easier living than back East on the more expensive land.

True, we are some distance from a town of any size, but with a good team of ponies and a light runabout, driving over these beautiful and historic old prairies is really a pleasure to be envied by you easterners with your autos and electric cars. They say here, "once a westerner, always a westerner," and that holds good with us.

But talk of growth—I guess its good times at the bottom of it all, but Almont, a town on the Northern Pacific railroad, eighteen miles from us, the site of which less than a year ago was a cow pasture with a switch and a sign, "Almont," was platted August 1st, and now boasts of the following buildings, either completed or in course of construction—church, a school house, 7 groceries, 2 hardware stores, 2 dry goods stores, 2 elevators, 2 banks, 1 blacksmith shop, 3 lumber yards, 1 meat market, 1 big hotel, 2 restaurants, 9 residences and a depot. The west is growing so that the conductors are stationed to the back ends of trains to watch for new towns as they spring up after the train has passed.

At Mandan last week a carnival was held with its usual free attractions. The Indians were out in all their glory, from the veteran warrior in blankets and feathers to the gay young college graduate in his cap and plaid. It was truly amusing to watch them as they watched the performances and to see them flock into the shows when the doors were opened.

The new Governor of North Dakota is enforcing the State Prohibition laws and every saloon in Mandan is closed in contrast to conditions of a year ago. The Southern Morton County Fair Association held a reception in the new Fair building at Flasher last night. Everybody enjoyed the refreshments and dancing and avowed support to the Fair, September 18-19 and by the way the Flasher Fair is really worth seeing—the display last year being exceedingly good.

Perhaps this is enough about North Dakota. I am so enthusiastic over the country because, if for no other reason, I can thank this climate for almost perfect health, something I never enjoyed back East.

Trusting this may interest some one in the Northwest I am, Yours respectfully,

RESORTERS ROUTED

Fire Destroys Summer Hotel Section of Old Orchard.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 16.—Nearly one-half of Old Orchard's summer hotel section along the shore front was swept by fire last night, the loss probably amounting to half a million dollars. So far as known no lives were lost. The Hotel Fiske, one of the finest on the beach, valued at $50,000; the Hotel Emerson, valued at $75,000, with its furnishings; the Hotel Alberta, the Aldine, the Lawrence House and a half dozen smaller hotels, together with about fifty cottages, were destroyed within two hours. The Old Orchard fire department was unable to handle the blaze and firemen from Portland, Biddeford and Saco, who responded to calls for assistance, were hampered for some time after their arrival by difficulty with the hose couplings.

The fire was discovered about 8 o'clock in the upper part of the Olympia hotel annex, which was occupied mainly by servants employed in the Hotel Emerson. It is supposed the upsetting of a lamp was the cause of the blaze. Adjoining buildings soon caught fire and from these the flames jumped the tracks and communicated with the Alberta hotel and several other large buildings near the shore. An area of about fifty acres along the beach was soon blazing.

In this area were located some of the most popular of the hotels, all filled with summer guests. Many valuable summer cottages were in this district, and these, too, were swept by fire. Most of the guests managed to save a considerable quantity of their personal effects.

Series of Conferences.

New York, Aug. 16.—A series of conferences have taken place here between the New interests in the Central of Georgia Railway company and the committee of bondholders appointed to safeguard their interests. Various plans for meeting demands of bondholders were discussed, but according to a member of the bondholders' committee, no decision was reached. Another meeting will be held.

SPRINGER IN CHARGE

National Bank Examiner is Attempting to Untangle the Affairs of a Badly Tangled Institution.

For Months There Had Apparently Been No Attempt Made to Post the Books.

Dillsboro, Ind., Aug. 16.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Fred Lubbe, cashier of the First National bank of this place, is still unsolved. Where he is no one seems to know, and no one has been able to figure out why he left. William E. Springer, national bank examiner, is in charge of the bank, and Mr. Springer refuses to give out any information concerning the bank's condition. With two assistants he is going over the books, and what he has found out so far he declines to say.

The general opinion is that there will be a shortage in the bank's affairs. The books are in a state of chaotic disorder. There has been practically no attempt at bookkeeping in the bank since last May. The daily balance sheets that should have been brought down to the close of each day's business have not been touched since earlier than May. Memorandums are found on slips of paper. No depositor's passbook has been balanced for weeks. Notes and papers of value are scattered about; in fact, the place has been conducted more like a junk shop than like a bank. Everything is dumped in a pile, and no effort for weeks has been made to bring order out of disorder. The conditions resemble the turning of a crazy man loose with a pen and a lot of papers. Bank Examiner W. D. Frazier investigated this bank six months ago, and he found the books badly kept. He notified the directors, and they have been since that time trying, without success, to get Lubbe to straighten out affairs.

While it is generally believed that a shortage will be found, it is not believed that the shortage will be large. In fact, if everything in the bank was taken the loss would not be heavy. The total deposits, according to the last report, were about $60,000, and the total loans about $50,000. So far no bad loans have been found. The capital stock of the bank is $25,000. There are twenty-five stockholders, who are liable for double the amount of the stock they hold. There are nine directors. The stockholders and directors say that if there is a shortage they are ready to make it good and allow the bank to go on.

JUDGE LANDIS BUSY

Hears Plea for Injunction in Infringement of Patent Case.

Indianapolis, Aug. 16.—Judge K. M. Landis, who is known throughout the country through the heavy fine he recently assessed against the Standard Oil company, sat on the bench in the federal court in this city yesterday. He had been authorized to sit on the federal bench in this district during the absence of Judge A. B. Anderson, if any business requiring the services of a judge should arise. He heard the plea for a preliminary injunction in the case of the General Electric company of Schenectady, Pa., against the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee, and the Winona Interurban company. The complainant company had alleged an infringement of a patent dynamo invented by Albert Parcell. The judge also heard argument on a motion to dismiss the bill of exceptions to the master's report in the Golden Malt Cream company case.

Recalls Historic Incident.

Huntington, Ind., Aug. 16.—After many years' residence elsewhere, G. A. Burns of Roann, who is ninety-one years old, is visiting friends in this city. He was one of the men present when the treaty of peace with the Indians was signed for the strip of land on which the city of Huntington now stands, at that time acting as special agent for the government in land deals.

An Unseemly Scramble.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 16.—Frank and George Polcyn, brothers, attended the funeral of their mother, and then went home and fought over the disposition of her life insurance. Frank, the younger, was badly beaten. George pleaded guilty in Justice J. N. Calvert's court, and was fined $15. Frank was afterward arrested for provoke.

Abused His Trust.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 16.—Nelson Fritz, fifty-two years old, a life prisoner from Bedford, Lawrence county, has escaped from the prison. He was sentenced in December, 1901, for the murder of John Pfeister. At the time of his escape he was a trusty, and was working on the prison farm.

Shot in a Saloon Brawl.

A GENERAL STRIKE

Telegraphers Are In Receipt of President S. J. Small's Formal Order.

ACTED DELIBERATELY

Promise That Such an Order Would Be Issued Last Evening Was Fulfilled This Morning.

Labor Commissioner Neill Has Returned to Washington Having Accomplished Nothing.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—S. J. Small, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, early this morning issued a general order to all commercial telegraphers to cease work immediately, where contracts with the union have not been signed.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—An order for a general strike of all union telegraphers which President Small of the telegraphers' organization promised would be sent out ten minutes after his arrival in Chicago did not make its appearance until this morning. Mr. Small arrived here last evening, and an hour later was in conference with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; George Perkins, president of the cigarmakers' union, and Wesley Russell, national secretary of the telegraphers' union. Labor Commissioner Neill left for Washington this afternoon. He took no part in last night's conference and said that he would make no effort toward arbitration until a request for such action had been made. Both telegraph companies have made a material increase to their board of trade force and the accession was greeted with lusty cheers by the traders. The Western Union and Postal are concentrating their efforts on their Eastern business. They seem desirous of impressing the East with their ability to cope with the situation. Business to the East is being handled with fair speed, but business to the West and to the Southwest is at a standstill. The offices are not even trying to handle the business west of here. Relay men employed by the long distance telephone companies have presented a new scale of wages to their employers with the ultimatum that unless the scale is signed they will go on strike. Without relay men long distance connections cannot be made. The thirty-five men here presenting the scale say that their walkout would be followed by walkouts all over the country. National and local officers of the commercial telegraphers are using every effort to prevent a threatened walkout of the railroad telegraph operators. They fear that an extension of the strike to the railroads, interfering with the movement of trains, would turn public sentiment against them, and there also is to be considered the question of strike assessments. Within a short time a strike assessment amounting to $50,000 is expected from the 45,000 operators employed by the railroads. That is why the general officers deprecate any strike talk.

THE CANADIAN WAY

Striking Operators Lay Themselves Liable to Punishment.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Canadian telegraphers who went on strike may be punished severely. It is provided by statute in Canada that no snap judgment or overt act shall be taken by capital or labor on the people as a whole, and to guard against a hardship in any direction the law provides that notice of labor disputes or intending strikes or lockouts shall be submitted to the authorities at the seat of federal government in Ottawa, Ont.

C. E. Hill, Canadian member of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, who is here, says that persons striking in violation of the law were subject to an individual fine of $10 to $50, while employers, whether individuals, co-partnerships or corporations, were subject to a penalty of $1,000 if lockouts were enforced without the same notice in Ottawa.

The Tuscaloosa cotton mills at Cottondale, Ala., were destroyed by fire. Loss $300,000.

Secretary Taft will spend three or four days at Yokohama, Japan, on his way to the Philippines.

Rumors that ex-President Cleveland is ill at his home in Princeton are untrue, according to his physician.

Low temperatures in the Canadian Northwest and excellent export business caused a sharp advance in the price of wheat at Chicago.

PREPARING TO RETIRE

China's Remarkable Old Ruler Will Give Up Her Job.

London, Aug. 16.—Dispatches from Shanghai contain the interesting news that Tsi An, the empress dowager of China, has announced her determination to abdicate at the next Chinese New Year. She desires to hand over the cares of state to the emperor, and it is stated that a decree has been issued calling a meeting of the grand council to make the change. The dowager empress has been supreme in Chinese affairs for many years.

NOTHING TO SAY

Attorney General Bonaparte Mum on the Alton Case.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Attorney General Bonaparte stated that he expected to have a conference on Monday next with District Attorney Sims, former District Attorney Morrison and Mr. Wilkerson, on the subject of the Chicago & Alton cases and that until he had held such a conference, no statement in regard to the matter involved could of course be made. He said he understood that certain testimony and statements would be presented to him, and he said they would receive a careful examination and consideration.

Another Soldier Victim.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The yellow fever situation in Cuba is disclosed in the following cablegram to the war department from Chief Surgeon Taylor, dated Havana, Thursday: "Private, first-class, Rowland Shepard, hospital corps, Cienfuegos, died of yellow fever last night; no new cases in garrison; two new cases in this city."

A STRONG RALLY

Wall Street Turns About and Defends Itself Against Bear Attacks.

SUBSTANTIAL SUPPORT

Earnest Assistance Saves the Market From Another Spasmodic Turn of Liquidation.

Starting In With a Heavy Selling Movement the Day Was Saved by Firm Support.

New York, Aug. 16.—Support of an earnest and substantial character saved Thursday's market from another spasmodic turn of liquidation and bear attacks such as characterized the previous day's late operations. Assistance was forthcoming almost from the outset, but not until prices had receded from two to four points in many of the speculative issues. The downward movement was speedily arrested, however, and extensive covering by shorts followed the news that the sheets of the stock exchange members passed through the clearinghouse without a hitch.

With an advance in the Bank of England's discount rate, the failure of the treasury department to relieve the money situation and recurrent mutterings of trouble in financial and industrial quarters, the day opened most inauspiciously. These unfavorable influences gathered additional impetus in the flood of selling orders from Europe. Our securities were practically without support at London, where quantities of the steel stocks were sold at market recessions. The weakness of the steel issues was concurrent with reports that our manufacturers had received many cancellations of orders.

Later in the day the heaviness of Americans in London was attributed to short selling for account of a coterie of professionals prominent in this market. Rumor associated the early decline in Smelting with the recent tremendous shrinkage in Interborough-Metropolitan shares, there being apparently a community of interest in these corporations. On the whole sentiment was slightly optimistic.

tic. There were persistent rumors that next week's public speeches of President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft would be highly reassuring. The local market more than held its early recovery, best prices of the day being recorded late in the session. The closing was strong, though comparatively inactive. Aside from the advance in its discount, the Bank of England's exhibit for the week was quite encouraging, loans being reduced by about $5,000,000, with an increase in total reserves of about $6,500,000. The bank's proportion of reserve to liabilities advanced a very marked increase over the previous week. According to the recognized trade authority, business in the steel and iron industry shows many signs of an approaching halt. Similar conditions apply in the various electrical manufacturing lines, the recessions of business already having resulted in the discharge of many hands.

FOUGHT TO SETTLE IT

Football Player Interests Himself in Central American Turmoil.

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—A cablegram received here from San Salvador says that Captain John H. Poe, who was at one time well known as a Princeton football player and who recently has been fighting in the Honduran army, has left Salvador on the steamer San Juan for San Francisco, where he purposes to recruit a "foreign legion" to take part in the expected war between the Central American states. Poe held the rank of captain with the Hondurans.

The best sources of information in Mexico City unite in declaring that trouble in Central America is certain. Guatemala and Salvador will be arrayed against Honduras and Nicaragua. President Figueroa of Salvador and President Cabrera of Guatemala have agreed that peace is impossible so long as Zelaya remains president of Nicaragua.

Russia's Bloody Record.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—It is reported that 274 persons throughout the Russian empire were killed for political offenses during July. It is also stated officially that fifty-four Russian officers and ninety-five private were killed and forty-seven officers and fifty-two private wounded while maintaining order during the same month.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—Part of the town of Deemitz was destroyed and 100 persons were killed or injured by an explosion in a large dynamite factory. Other persons were injured by falling walls.

Joseph Joachim Dead. Berlin, Aug. 16.—Joseph Joachim, the celebrated violinist, conductor of JOSEPH JOACHIM, GERMAN VIOLINIST, the Royal Academy of Music, Berlin, and music director of the Royal Academy of Arts, is dead of paralysis.

Heartrending Scenes.

Tangier, Aug. 16.—Reports are coming in from Casablanca of heartrending scenes. Wounded persons are coming out from all sorts of hiding places. Through the neglect of their wounds for so many days their condition now is terrible. Slight wounds that would have been promptly cured had medical attendance been available are now mortified and many of the unfortunate natives have to face amputation, and even that may be too late to save their lives. The French medical staff at Casablanca is altogether inadequate to deal with these numerous cases.

No New Developments.

New York, Aug. 16.—There were no developments of moment in the telegraph strike in this city and at nearby points today. All sides to the controversy continued optimistic in their expressions. The Wall street brokers and their operators were eliminated from the contest when last night the local telegraph union met and for the second time tabled a resolution calling upon the operators of the financial district to go out.

A Meeting of Kings.

Ischl, Austria, Aug. 16.—King Edward has arrived here on his visit to Emperor Francis Joseph. The exchanges between the two monarchs were cordial and certain political matters were discussed and cleared up satisfactorily.

MUSIC AT STATE FAIR

Big Band Concerts Will Be Features Every Morning and Afternoon.

Band music will be one of the choicest features at the state fair at Indianapolis during the week of Sept. 9. The Weber band, of Cincinnati, one of the finest concert organizations of the west, will give two extensive programs each day, some of them before the Art building, and the others in the grandstand. Each of the Weber programs will be three hours in length and they will be made up entirely of popular music. A number of soloists will be heard. The Indianapolis Newsboys' Band, which has been playing at the fair for several years, will spend the entire week at the coming exposition, giving concerts every hour. The band is made up of sixty boys and their efficiency was proved when they won the highest award for juvenile bands at the St. Louis world's fair. The Indianapolis Military Band, rated as the best in Indiana, will also be heard in popular programs during the week. The band concerts, woven into the vaudeville features, will make the outdoor program of the fair of elaborate order. These features will be given at points on the grounds where many thousand people can enjoy them.

OPEN AIR VAUDEVILLE

Many Attractions on This Order Will Be Given Free at the State Fair.

For some years the management of the Indiana State Fair has been giving an extensive program of vaudeville attractions which have entertained people by the hundreds of thousands. This feature of the big exposition, which will be held at Indianapolis the week of September 9, has been so popular that a better list of attractions than ever has been provided. The vaudeville program will be given on a large platform before the grandstand between the heats of the races. The performances will also be presented near the Art building, and at both these points many thousand spectators may see the attractions. The vaudeville will be made up of acrobatic, trapeze and swinging ladder feats, both difficult and humorous, and there will be a troupe of bicyclists who will show their talent in trick riding.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLow.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

Ryder remained thoughtful a moment, and then he replied:

"No, I do not—no!"

Thinking that she had touched his sympathies, Shirley followed up her advantage:

"Oh, then, why not come to his rescue—you, who are so rich, so powerful; you, who can move the scales of justice at your will—save this man from humiliation and disgrace!"

Ryder shrugged his shoulders, and his face expressed weariness, as if the subject had begun to bore him.

"My dear girl, you don't understand. His removal is necessary."

Shirley's face became set and hard. There was a contemptuous ring to her words as she retorted:

"Yet you admit that he may be innocent!"

"Even if I knew it as a fact, I could not move."

"Do you mean to say that if you had positive proof?" She pointed to the drawer in the desk where he had placed the letters. "If you had absolute proof in that drawer, for instance, wouldn't you help him then?"

Ryder's face grew cold and inscrutable; he now wore his fighting mask.

"Not even if I had the absolute proof in that drawer!" he snapped viciously.

"Have you absolute proof in that drawer?" she demanded.

"I repeat that even if I had I could not expose the men who have been my friends. It's noblesse oblige in politics as well as in society, you know."

He smiled again at her, as if he had recovered his good humor after their sharp passages at arms.

"Oh, it's politics! That's what the papers said. And you believe him innocent. Well, you must have some grounds for your belief."

"Not necessarily."

"You said that even if you had the proofs you could not produce them without sacrificing your friends, showing that your friends are interested in having this man put off the bench?" She stopped and burst into hysterical laughter. "Oh, I think you're having a joke at my expense," she went on, "just to see how far you can lead me. I daresay Judge Rossmore deserves all he gets. Oh, yes, I'm sure he deserves it." She rose and walked to the other side of the room to conceal her emotion.

Ryder watched her curiously.

"My dear young lady, how you take this matter to heart!"

"Please forgive me," laughed Shirley and averting her face to conceal the fact that her eyes were filled with tears. "It's my artistic temperament, I suppose. It's always getting me into trouble. It appened so strongly to my sympathies, this story of hopeless love between two young people, with the father of the girl hounded by corrupt politicians and unscrupulous financiers. It was too much for me. Ah, ah, I forgot where I was!"

She leaned against a chair, sick and faint from nervousness, her whole body trembling. At that moment there was a knock at the library door, and Jefferson Ryder appeared. Not seeing Shirley, whose back was toward him, he advanced to greet his father.

"You told me to come up in five minutes," he said. "I just wanted to say—"

"Miss Green," said Ryder senior, addressing Shirley and ignoring whatever it was that the young man wanted to say, "this is my son Jefferson. Jeff, this is Miss Green."

Jefferson looked in the direction indicated and stood as if rooted to the floor. He was so surprised that he was struck dumb. Finally, recovering himself, he exclaimed:

"Shirley!"

"Yes, Shirley Green, the author," explained Ryder senior, not noticing the note of familiar recognition in his exclamation.

Shirley advanced and, holding out her hand to Jefferson, said demurely:

"I am very pleased to meet you, Mr. Ryder." Then quickly in an undertone she added: "Be careful. Don't betray me."

Jefferson was so astounded that he did not see the outstretched hand. All he could do was to stand and stare first at her and then at his father.

"Why don't you shake hands with her?" said Ryder senior. "She won't bite you." Then he added: "Miss Green is going to do some literary work for me, so we shall see a great deal of her. It's too bad you're going away." He chuckled at his own pleasantry.

"Father," blurted out Jefferson, "I came to say that I've changed my mind. You did not want me to go, and I feel I ought to do something to please you."

"Good boy," said Ryder, pleased. "Now you're talking common sense." He turned to Shirley, who was getting ready to make her departure: "Well, Miss Green, we may consider the matter settled. You undertake the work at the price I named and finish it as soon as you can. Of course you will have to consult me a good deal as you go along, so I think it would be better for you to come and stay here while the work is progressing. Mrs. Ryder can give you a suit of rooms to yourself, where you will be undisturbed, and you will have all your material close at hand. What do you say?"

Shirley was silent for a moment.

She looked first at Ryder and then at his son, and from them her glance went to the little drawer on the left hand side of the desk. Then she said quietly:

"As you think best, Mr. Ryder. I am quite willing to do the work here."

Ryder senior escorted her to the top of the landing and watched her as she passed down the grand staircase, ushered by the gorgeously uniformed flunkies, to the front door and the street.

CHAPTER XIII.

SHIRLEY entered upon her new duties in the Ryder household two days later. She had returned to her rooms the evening of her meeting with the financier in a state bordering upon hysteria. The day's events had been so extraordinary that it seemed to her they could not be real and that she must be in a dream. The car ride to Seventy-fourth street, the interview in the library, the discovery of her father's letters, the offer to write the biography and, what to her was still more important, the invitation to go and live in the Ryder home—all these incidents were so remarkable and unusual that it was only with difficulty that the girl persuaded herself that they were not figments of a disordered brain.

But it was all true enough. The next morning's mail brought a letter from Mrs. Ryder, who wrote to the effect that Mr. Ryder would like the work to begin at once and adding that a suit of rooms would be ready for her the following afternoon. Shirley did not hesitate. Everything was to be gained by making the Ryder residence her headquarters, her father's very life depending upon the successful outcome of her present mission, and this unhoped for opportunity practically insured success. She immediately wrote to Massapequa. One letter was to her mother, saying that she was extending her visit beyond the time originally planned. The other letter was to Stott. She told him all about the interview with Ryder, informed him of the discovery of the letters and after explaining the nature of the work offered to her said that her address for the next few weeks would be in care of John Burkett Ryder. All was going better than she had dared to hope. Everything seemed to favor their plan. Her first step, of course, while in the Ryder home would be to secure possession of her father's letters, and these she would dispatch at once to Massapequa, so they could be laid before the senate without delay.

So, after settling accounts with her landlady and packing up her few belongings, Shirley lost no time in transferring herself to the more luxurious quarters provided for her in the $10,000,000 mansion uptown.

At the Ryder house she was received cordially and with every mark of consideration. The housekeeper came down to the main hall to greet her when she arrived and escorted her to the suite of rooms, comprising a small working library, a bedroom simply but daintily furnished in pink and white and a private bathroom which had been specially prepared for her convenience and comfort, and here presently she was joined by Mrs. Ryder.

"Dear me," exclaimed the financier's wife, staring curiously at Shirley, "what a young girl you are to have made such a stir with a book! How did you do it? I'm sure I couldn't. It's as much as I can do to write a letter, and half the time that's not legible."

"Oh, it wasn't so hard!" laughed Shirley. "It was the subject that appealed rather than any special skill of mine. The trusts and their misdeeds are the favorite topics of the hour. The whole country is talking about nothing else. My book came at the right time, didn't it?"

Although "The American Octopus" was a direct attack on her own husband, Mrs. Ryder secretly admired this young woman who had dared to speak a few blunt truths. It was a courage which, alas, she had always lacked herself, but there was a certain satisfaction in knowing there were women in the world not entirely cowed by the tyrant man.

"I have always wanted a daughter," went on Mrs. Ryder, becoming confidential, while Shirley removed her things and made herself at home. "Girls of your age are so companionable." Then abruptly she asked, "Do your parents live in New York?"

Shirley's face flushed, and she stooped over her trunk to hide her embarrassment.

"No—not at present," she answered evasively. "My mother and father are in the country."

She was afraid that more questions of a personal nature would follow, but apparently Mrs. Ryder was not in an inquisitive mood, for she asked nothing further. She only said:

"I have a son, but I don't see much of him. You must meet my Jefferson. He is such a nice boy."

Shirley tried to look unconcerned as she replied:

"I met him yesterday. Mr. Ryder introduced him to me."

"Poor lad! He has his troubles, too," went on Mrs. Ryder. "He's in love with a girl, but his father wants him to marry some one else. They're quarreling over it all the time."

"Parents shouldn't interfere in matters of the heart," said Shirley decisively. "What is more serious than the choosing of a life companion, and who are better entitled to make a free selection than they who are going to spend the rest of their days together? Of course it is a father's duty to give his son the benefit of his riper experience, but to insist on a marriage based only on business interests is little less than a crime. There are considerations more important if the union is to be a happy or a lasting one. The chief thing is that the man should feel real attachment for the woman he marries. Two people who are to live together as man and wife must be compatible in tastes and temper. You cannot mix oil and water. It is these selfish marriages which keep our divorce courts busy. Money alone won't buy happiness in marriage."

"No," sighed Mrs. Ryder. "No one knows that better than I."

The financier's wife was already most favorably impressed with her guest, and she chatted on as if she had known Shirley for years. It was rarely that she had heard so young a woman an express such common sense views, and the more she talked with her the less surprised she was that she was the author of a much discussed book. Finally, thinking that Shirley might prefer to be alone, she rose to go, bidding her make herself thoroughly at home and to ring for anything she might wish. A maid had been assigned to look exclusively after her wants, and she could have her meals served in her room or else have them with the family, as she liked. But Shirley, not caring to encounter Mr. Ryder's cold, searching stare more often than necessary, said she would prefer to take her meals alone.

"What a young girl you are to have made such a stir!"

Left to herself, Shirley settled down to work in earnest. Mr. Ryder had sent to her room all the material for the biography, and soon she was completely absorbed in the task of sorting and arranging letters, making extracts from records, compiling data, etc., laying the foundations for the important book she was to write. She wondered what they would call it, and she smiled as a peculiarly appropriate title flashed through her mind—"The History of a Crime." Yet she thought they could hardly infringe on Victor Hugo. Perhaps the best title was the simplest—"The History of the Empire Trading Company." Every one would understand that it told the story of John Burkett Ryder's remarkable career from his earliest beginnings to the present time. She worked feverishly all that evening getting the material into shape, and the following day found her early at her desk. No one disturbed her, and she wrote steadily on until noon, Mrs. Ryder only once putting her head in the door to wish her good morning.

After luncheon Shirley decided that the weather was too glorious to remain indoors. Her health must not be jeopardized even to advance the interests of the Colossus, so she put on her hat and left the house to go for a walk. The air smelled sweet to her after being confined so long indoors, and she walked with a more elastic and buoyant step than she had since her return home. Turning down Fifth avenue, she entered the park at Seventy-second street, following the pathway until she came to the bend in the driveway opposite the Casino. The park was almost deserted at that hour, and there was a delightful sense of solitude and a sweet scent of new mown hay from the freshly cut lawns. She found an empty bench, well shaded by an over-spreading tree, and sat down, grateful for the rest and quiet.

She wondered what Jefferson thought of her action in coming to his father's house practically in disguise and under an assumed name. She must see him at once, for in him lay her hope of obtaining possession of the letters. Certainly she felt no delicacy or compunction in asking Jefferson to do her this service. The letters belonged to her father, and they were being wrongfully withheld with the deliberate purpose of doing him an injury. She had a moral if not a legal right to recover the letters in any way that she could.

FIFTY FREE TICKETS

TO THE

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION

WHICH INCLUDES

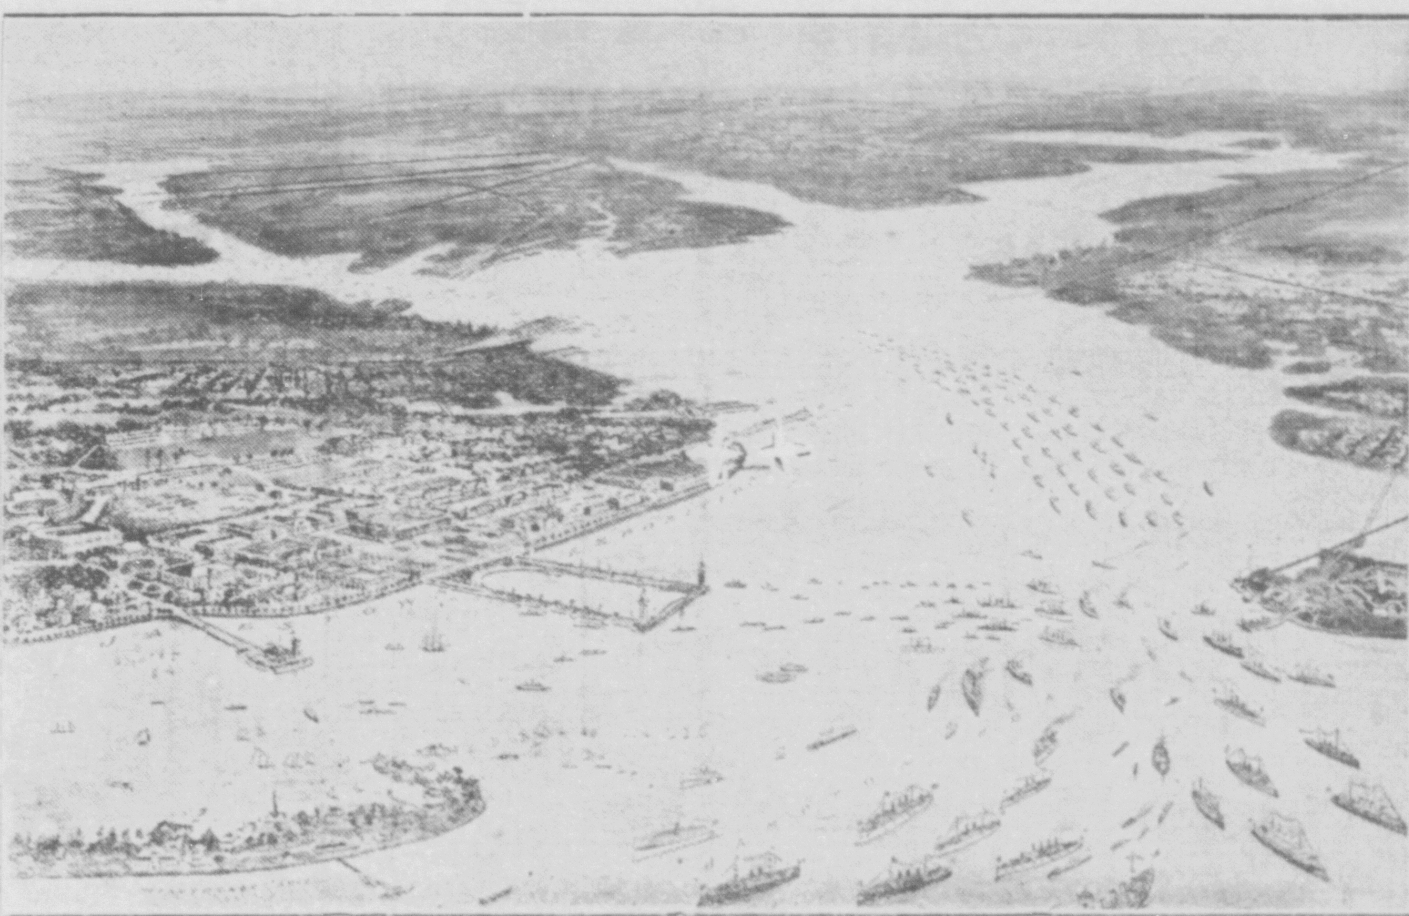

Eight Days Lodging Free

THE REPUBLICAN hopes to send at least fifty persons to the Jamestown Exposition free. At least a plan has been perfected whereby such will be easily accomplished by those who are not afraid to hustle a little. The Republican abandoned the idea of a contest for the reason that there are always contestants who work hard and win nothing at all. The Republican's plan is so arranged that the workers get the benefit of every particle of exertion. The plan is very simple. The Republican runs its excursions to the Exposition weekly on Tuesdays until the Exposition closes in November. The close of the Exposition is six months away. ANY PERSON WHO WILL SECURE TEN (10) NEW SUBSCRIBERS TO THE REPUBLICAN—$3.00 PER YEAR IN RUSH COUNTY, BY MAIL; $4.00 DELIVERED BY CARRIER IN RUSHVILLE—PAID ONE YEAR IN ADVANCE, WILL RECEIVE A TICKET FREE. This ticket entitles the holder to railroad fare both ways and lodging while at the Exposition—eight days—with stopover privileges galore along the route, including Richmond, Va. and Washington, D. C., including steamboat rides between Richmond and the Exposition grounds and between the Exposition grounds and Washington, D. C.—both all day rides, constituting what are among the chief pleasures of the entire trip.

But suppose you fail to secure ten subscribers. Well, under The Republican's plan you don't lose, for with every subscriber you do secure you get a credit of two dollars on your ticket.

Suppose you should go quietly to work right now. You get one NEW subscriber and bring his name and the money to The Republican office. You receive a receipt entitling you to a credit of two dollars on your ticket when you go. Then if you get one subscriber your ticket will cost you but $19.50. If you get three you go for $15.50, and so on up to ten, when you are handed a ticket for nothing. Then again, your tickets are transferable. That is to say if you earn a ticket or any part of a ticket and for any reason can not go, you are at liberty to sell your ticket or your credit on same to any other person. Suppose you should earn a whole ticket, then under the new arrangement, just perfected with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad you could, by paying $1.50, have your fare and lodging provided and a sleeping car both ways.

To those who do not care to work for free tickets we will sell them a ticket for $21.50 (children under 12 years $11.75) which includes car fare both ways and eight days lodging at the Exposition at Tent City, which is designated in the cut by a cross.

How Trains and Boats Run.

There are two trains daily between Cincinnati and Richmond and the exposition—if one should wish to go all the way by rail. It must be remembered that these tickets are good either by rail all the way or via steamboat from Richmond to the Exposition grounds. Should you wish to leave Rushville in the evening you take the train for Cincinnati at 3:24 p. m., arriving there at 6 p. m. you then leave Cincinnati on the C. & O. at 9:30 p. m. arriving at Richmond at 4:15 p. m. Boats leave Richmond daily except Sunday at 7 a. m., arriving at the Exposition grounds at 6:30 p. m.

Should you wish to leave Rushville in the morning you would take a Big Four train at 8:13 a. m. arriving at Cincinnati at 10:55 a. m. Then you take the 12:01—noon—train on the C. & O. arriving at Richmond at 7:30 a. m.—too late for the boat the same day—but continuing on to the Exposition grounds you arrive at 10:10 a. m.

To leave Rushville in the evening is the most popular trip, for it allows more time in Richmond and gives better advantage for scenery.

Boats leave Norfolk and Old Point Comfort every day—both a day boat and a night boat—for Washington, D. C. and train with sleeper attached leaves Washington for Cincinnati on Thursday, the tenth day, at 11:10 p. m. arriving at Cincinnati at 5 p. m.

Five Days in Advance.

Arrangements have just been perfected through which patrons of The Republican's excursions will be able to secure tourist's sleeper Cincinnati to Richmond for 75c. That is to say, the rate will be $1.50 a berth, $3.00 a section, and when two persons occupy one berth this reduces the cost to each individual to 75c. The same rate applies on the return trip, the price from Washington, D. C. to Cincinnati being 75c. In order to secure space in sleeping car you must reserve same five days in advance.

You do not pay for your berth until you get on the train, although YOU MUST RESERVE SAME FIVE DAYS IN ADVANCE. These sleepers will leave Washington, D. C. on Thursdays, the tenth day, at 11:10 p. m. and reservations for the return trip may be made by simply indicating same to the conductor.

Go to work at once and get your free ticket and go any time you wish before the Exposition closes in November. For further information call or address.

W. B. REDUSO for LARGE WOMEN

Restraints tendency to overfleshiness, and moulds the over-developed proportions into graceful outlines hitherto thought to be attainable only by slighter figures.

This splendid result is attained by an unboned apron extension which reaches down over the abdomen and hips, giving the wearer absolute freedom of movement.

This feature absolutely eliminates the necessity of any harness-like devices and straps, hitherto deemed essential on corsets of this kind.

Pine Beach Pier for 25 cents, round trip 50 cents, and there is situated the ship building yards with the big fighting crafts of the world under construction.

Old Point Comfort (Fortress Monroe) can be reached from Pine Beach pier for 30 cents the round trip, and one can spend a whole day wandering around over those old ramparts and examining guns, old and new, the latest being the two big $100,000 disappearing guns, which are a revelation. There is no charge for admission into any of these places. On the contrary, all visitors are courteously welcomed and handsomely treated.

When it comes to a description of the navy exhibition proper—the fleet of battleships constantly in the harbor of Hampton Roads—words can not tell the story of its impressiveness. For instance: As the James river boat rounded into view of the big battleship fleet last Monday evening, a fleet consisting of 22 vessels representing five nations, all were lighted up simultaneously with incandescents, 5000 on each ship and so arranged that the outlines of each vessel were clearly defined in the night. The steamer sailed down one side of the fleet, landed at Old Point and then sailed back over to Pine Beach on the other side. There lay 22 battleships lighted by a total of 110,000 incandescents, while their powerful searchlights were literally scouring the heavens. It was a fairy scene overpowering in its magnificence and grandeur, and the opportunity of a lifetime.

The facts are these: None who can spare the money can well afford to miss a trip to this exposition. It is historic territory and appeals to every American born citizen strongly. The trip is intensely educational in its tendency and, to an inland born citizen, it is simply splendid.

It is going to be an inexpensive trip along the lines of The Daily Republic's plan and, when after you have seen the exposition the points of interest above noted, you take the magnificent steamboat ride to Washington, the capital, and feast your eyes on the great Chesapeake bay and the historic Potomac river, you will come home satisfied.

Little Norma has gone on before, having been permitted to remain in the home just long enough to entwine its tender cord of love around each heart and mind. She has gone on before to be with the grandmother, who only a few months ago made her journey to the great beyond, and to that bright and happy land, where she is beckoning each to come and join her; also gone to be with the dear Saviour, who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." She leaves a father, mother, brother and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

TRUTH COMING OUT

Sensational Incident in San Francisco Bribery Trial.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—A sensational incident marked yesterday's close of the Glass bribery trial. Former Supervisor Dr. Charles Boxton was asked by Attorney Delmas to answer the question: "Did you accept the $500 offered you as a bribe by G. M. Roy in the matter of your vote in the skating rink ordinance?"

Dr. Boxton replied: "I don't see what that's got to do with this case." "Very well," said Delmas, "I shall not insist upon the question. That is all."

Without hesitation District Attorney Heney took up Delmas's question and put it to the witness: "Did you accept that money?"

"The question is legal and pertinent and the witness must answer," ruled Judge Lawler.

Boxton turned in his chair and glared savagely at Heney. "Yes," he said, between his set teeth. "I accepted it, and I'll tell this, too: Burns told me Rudolph Spreckels gave that money to Roy and caused the bills to be marked, and I'll tell you something else, since you want it all."

"Yes," interrupted Heney, "we want it all. Go ahead."

"I will. Burns told me to deny that I took that money, and he tried to get me to sign an affidavit to that effect. I told you that, Mr. Heney, and you said: 'Well, I didn't tell you to do that.' I did deny to the newspaper reporters that I had accepted money from Roy. Burns wanted to keep it from the papers. I presume he wanted to protect Roy, and I understood that I was to be protected, but evidently I am not to be."

Boxton's face flushed and his eyes blazed with anger at Heney and he snarled rather than spoke this testimony. He was excused without further questioning.

Caught by Ore Grappler.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., Aug. 16.—John Sverzan, twenty-two years old, employed at the Indiana Steel company plant, and in that part where vessels carrying ore are unloaded by means of specially constructed machinery, while in the hold of a vessel, was caught about the leg by an ore-grappler lowered into the hold to pick up ore. The grappler, in full view of the man's mates, carried the dangling body into midair, to be dumped on the ore pile on the dock, sixty feet below. Sverzan managed to cling to the grappler, and prevented himself from being dropped, but on the return the grappler gave a jerk, and his leg was torn from his body. Sverzan fell on the hard ore pile and died before surgical aid could be rendered.

Calmness in Emergency.

An eminent doctor, lecturing to a school of nurses upon the necessity of self control in emergencies, told the following incident: "One of his patients while in a low, nervous condition swallowed by mistake a dose from the wrong bottle. She shrieked out that she was poisoned. One of the nurses screamed 'Aconite!' and began to cry hysterically. The other nurse, seeing that the patient was going into convulsions from terror, when relief would be impossible, said coolly: 'Don't be frightened. Look here, taking a mouthful of the dose herself. She then went outside to rid her mouth of it, procured an emetic and sent for a doctor and a stomach pump. Her calmness saved the life of the patient.'"

FRIED CORN

A Delicious Summertime Dish that You Will Relish

For those people who have never eaten fried corn there is certainly a delight in store, says the August Delineator.

At the first opportunity, therefore, let them take some young, tender green corn—a dozen ears will not be too many for a family of four or five—and let them see that the corn is scraped carefully from the cob. Let the corn be cut through the center of the kernel, so that all the pulp and juices may be extracted without the removal of any of the hulls. Over the corn a very little flour should then be sifted, with salt and pepper to taste. In the mean time, let some slices of fat bacon be placed over the fire in a frying pan, to remain until all the grease has been extracted. When this has been done the meat should be removed and the corn put into the pan to fry in the bacon fat until it has become deliciously brown and tender, but it must be stirred almost constantly during the fifteen or twenty minutes that it will take to cook it. If not it will burn.

The most active volcano in existence is Sangay in Ecuador. Explosions occur usually four times in the hour; 267 explosion have been counted in an hour.

Women's Woes

Rushville Women are Finding Relief at Last

It dose seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pain that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constant aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures they kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. B. W. Reynolds, 620 W. Fifth Streets, Rushville Indiana Says:

"I had a constant backache; that robbed me of energy and enjoyment. Frequent headaches added to my unhappiness and I was always tired but could not rest at night. Although I used several remedies I did not get better but steadily grew worse. I read statements of people whom Doan's Kidney Pills had helped and my husband got me a box at F. B. Johnson & Co's drug store. Since using them I have been free from backache and all kidney trouble."

Handed A Lemon For Ten Cents

"Say, mister, have you got a dime in change in your pocket," says a pretty girl as she holds the hustling business man by the coat.

The man feels around in his trousers' pockets and finally resurrects a dime, whereupon the young lady seizes the coin and hands its former owner a card, which says, "You are now a member of the Lemon club."

The "gag" is out and several local men have "bit" on it. It is better to be a member of the Ananias club than to be handed a lemon.
